PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Elizabeth White, of East Portland, is in this city searching for her husband. Thus far her efforts to find him have been futile. She thinks he has abandoned her.

The Democratic County Committee met last night and made arrangements for a complete reorganization of the working machinery in this city. Resolutions were adopted indorsing the plan of primary elections.

In the pools for the great running race on Saturday Katie Pease sells at $100; Thad Stephens at $70; Joe Daniels at $50, and the field at $42 50. The officers of the Pacific Jockey Club say the race will come off rain or shine. It is reported this morning that two of the horses selling for the field, but the names not given, have been withdrawn in anticipation of stormy weather and a bad track.

Greenbacks unchanged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The Democrats are firing a salute of 100 guns to-night, and will hold a grand mass meeting at Platt's Hall in honor of Eastern victories.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The Democrats are firing a salute of 100 guns to-night, in honor of the recent victories in the East, and will hold a grand mass meeting at Union Hall. Among the speakers announced to address the meeting are Jas. T. Farley, B. C. Brown, Philip A. Roach, Henry E. Wighton, Dr. Gustave Holland, Chas. E. Travers, Thos. P. Ryan, Robert Ferral, Dr. F. Von Loehr, Robert Howe, Col. P. F. Walsh, Dr. J. C. Short and Col. Stewart Taylor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The Democrats are holding an immense mass meeting at Union Hall to-night. The place is crowded to suffocation and hundreds are unable to get standing room. The galleries are filled with ladies. Bonfires are burning in front of the Hall, and speakers are addressing the crowd outside. There are probably 3,000 persons in the main hall and galleries. Speeches thus far relate almost wholly to recent Democratic victories in the East, but there is evidently less enthusiasm than was expected, and the promised torchlight procession will not come off.

A fire occurred this evening on Francisco street, between Mason and Taylor, destroying a frame dwelling occupied by a Welch family, name unknown. Loss about $2,000.

Charles Staley, a man about 50 years of age, was arrested to-night for attempting to commit a rape on a little girl 9 years of age.

John Dwyer and Thomas Suite were arrested to-night for burglary on Sansome street.

Ten Chinese were arrested to-night for gambling.

The Giant Powder Mining Company has declared a dividend of 1½ per cent., payable next Monday.

The Black Diamond Company declares a dividend of 1½ per cent., payable on the 20th instant.

Interior California.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 12.—Parties from Cajon valley report farmers very busy putting in grain, the rain last week having made the ground in fine condition for plowing. Two thousand five hundred acres have already been sown. Three weeks more and all acreage of last year will be seeded, and farmers will have all winter to break up and seed new ground.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—The quarterly session of the District Council of Patrons of Husbandry for Los Angeles and San Bernardino, was held at Compton on Tuesday. State lecturer J. A. Wright and Prof. Carr were present. Both delivered addresses. A large amount of business was transacted. The substantial hospitalities of the Patrons of Compton were extended to visiting grangers in the shape of a toothsome feast, which was energetically discussed.

Gen. Boschine, who has the contract for dredging Wilmington harbor, has commenced work.

The farmers appear confident that we shall have plenty of rain in this part of the State this winter, and are preparing to take advantage of it.

H. A. Jones is sending a large amount of lumber to Panamint for building purposes.

Our people are once more exercised on the subject of the Los Angeles and Independence R. R. All recognize the importance of building the road as soon as possible.

CHICO, Nov. 13.—This morning, at a quarter past 6 o'clock, the woodshed attached to the Brown Chapel was discovered to be on fire. The building being wooden, the flames soon communicated with the main building, and it was a total loss of $2,500; no insurance. It is supposed to have caught from some persons sleeping in the woodshed. The chapel was the pioneer church of Chico.

UTAH.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 12.—Brigham Young has arrived at St. George, Utah.

John D. Lee, now in prison at Beaver, charged with [illegible] connected with the Mountain Meadow massacre of 1857, when 120 Arkansas emigrants were murdered, it is said will give a true history of the whole affair, and names of parties interested.

In the Third District Court to-day George Q. Cannon gave bail in $5,000 to answer from day to day on charge of polygamy, a former indictment against him having been found under the Territorial law for lascivious cohabitation.

Thomas E. Ricks, now in the penitentiary under indictments for lascivious cohabitation and murder, [illegible] to get released on bail to-day, but unsuccessfully. It will be remembered that Ricks [illegible] of the grand jury.

ARIZONA.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 12.—A Union's dispatch from Prescott, Nov. 11th, says: Mining news from the Mohave country is very encouraging—some magnificent specimens are on exhibition here. The last excitement was over the discovery of a large rich vein of silver ore in the Peacock range, 30 miles east of Mineral Park and 15 miles north of Red Banks on the Prescott road.

It is reported that the Greenwood mine of Pierce and Jay Cox has been sold to an agent of Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, for $10,000.

AMENDING THE POTTER LAW.—The sentiment of the Wisconsin journals shows a growing disposition among the people of that State to require the next Legislature to remove whatever unjust provisions are demonstrated in the Potter law. Their attitude seems that of generous conquerors. Having established their superiority over the corporations they profess no desire to do them injustice. Ample opportunity will be afforded to make amends. Carefully prepared comparative statements have been kept since the law went into operation which will show the exact results from the same amount of traffic for a corresponding period. The passenger results can be easily ascertained and will demonstrate whether the reduction of one cent per mile will have the effect to increase travel sufficiently to overcome the decrease in the compensation. The information thus obtained is desired by the Railroad Commissioners for the benefit and guidance of the next Legislature.

SCENE IN A PHILADELPHIA LAW COURT.—Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—This morning there appeared before Judge Lynd in the District Court House B. H. Brewster and Theodore Cuyler, the one to press for the trial of a case (they were the contesting counsel) and the other to beg delay. The more they argued the warmer became their contest. The members of the Bar present were surprised, and finally when Mr. Brewster told Mr. Cuyler that he was a nuisance to the Court their surprise was increased to amazement. They flocked around the contestants while Judge Lynd in vain endeavored to preserve order. Affairs were assuming a serious aspect for a court of justice when Judge Lynd put a stop to the contest by fining each belligerent gentleman $100.

THE HAMMILL MURDER.

MRS. MERRIGAN'S REMARKABLE STORY.

[From the N. Y. Herald, Oct. 31.]

Mrs. Sarah C. Merrigan's trial for the murder of Miss Maggie Hammill was continued yesterday in the Kings County Court of Oyer and Terminer before Judge Tappan. After several witnesses had been examined to prove the good character of the prisoner the counsel for the defense called her as a witness to testify in her own behalf. She gave her evidence in a clear, unassuming manner. She was 24 years of age and first made Maggie's acquaintance at school; their relations were very friendly, as they were in the same class together at the convent and studied the same studies; they were confidential friends and their friendship continued up to the time of her death. Maggie never made her any presents, but she made the children presents of clothing; she believed in fortune telling and told Maggie about the gypsy fortune teller, Bertha; when they were on their way to a fortune teller in West Forty-fourth street, New York, told her of her performance about measuring the head, the temples, the feet, the toes, etc.; she measured witness's toes, she said, to see if she was parrot-toed. Maggie, when she came over, asked her to show her how the gypsy did it, and they went through the same performance; the best thing to use as a measure, she said, she thought was a clothes line, so she went to the clothes basket and got it; it was necessary for Maggie to get upon a chair and place the line about her neck; the two ends then hung down; the measurement about her neck was 14 inches; marked it with a pin, but the pin would not hold well, so Maggie made a noose about her neck; witness was measuring her feet and toes; Maggie, to get the other end of the line out of the way and also to bring the rope tight, threw one end over the top of the door; they heard some one coming up stairs, and Maggie said, "Don't let them come in and see how foolish we are acting;" so she left Maggie on the chair and ran out, meeting Mrs. Knowles just as she was coming up stairs in search of her daughter; Mrs. Knowles asked for Mary Jane and Irene; just then the girls called out from the foot of the stairs, and also called witness to come down and see what they were doing; she went down and they showed her some sensational papers and cards; she was absent about seventeen minutes, and when she returned Maggie was strangled, hanging against the door; she hardly remembered what she did after that; she remembered taking her hand and asking her what she could do for her, praying for her and searching for the scissors to cut her down; all she remembered was that she saw Maggie's eyes and teeth staring at her; Maggie had artificial teeth, and they seemed to be looking at her; it all seemed to her like a dream, something which occurred when she was a child, and of which she only had an indistinct remembrance; she did not know how Maggie was strangled unless by falling from the chair against the door and closing it tightly upon the rope; she felt of Maggie's heart and it had ceased beating; the child began to cry, and she took it up, but what occurred after that she was unable to say. District Attorney Winslow cross-examined the prisoner for some length, trying in every manner to shake her testimony, but she related the same story even more distinctly. Up to the time of the terrible affair her memory appeared to very good.

[Telegraphic dispatches of Nov. 1st state that the jury in Mrs. Merrigan's case failed to agree and were discharged.—ED. OREGONIAN.]

A REMARKABLE VERDICT.

A JURY WHO HATED TO HANG THE SON OF A MILLIONAIRE.

There has been tried at Towsonton a clear case of willful, malicious, brutal murder and a verdict rendered of "not guilty." The declarations of the dying man and the testimony of the witness who swore to seeing the knife drawn, the blade opened and the quick blows descending on the body of the victim were all taken for naught, and twelve men have been found to place credence in the statement of an unknown volunteer witness who is brought forward at the last moment to relate a cooked up story at variance with all the facts and testimony in the case. There was no reasonable doubt in this case upon which to hang such a verdict, and we cannot believe that there is any one in the State of Maryland who has read or listened to the testimony, who has the slightest doubt as to the fact that Berry Amos met his death at the hands of Samuel McDonald. One of the points upon which great stress was laid was the fact that no blood was found upon the floor at Sherwood's Hotel, where the alleged killing took place. We happened to be present at the post mortem examination made at the station house, of the body of the deceased, which clearly disclosed the reason of this absence of stains upon the floor. When the breast was opened the whole interior presented a mass of coagulated blood which was taken out in double handfuls and thrown into a bucket before the lungs and vital parts were visible. The flow of blood was mainly into the cavity of the chest and not outwardly. From such a deep cut through the heart of a fleshy man like Amos the wound naturally closed up when the knife was withdrawn, while the clothing absorbed the blood from the cut upon the arm during the moment that elapsed before he made his escape from the bar room. The fact remains that Berry Amos was murdered, and if McDonald did not strike the fatal blow some one else did. To attempt to seek his murderers now would be regarded as a capital joke. When McDonald stalked forth from the court-house on Saturday a free man, there was the end of the case. No suspicion will attach to any one else, and no one else will ever be accused of its perpetration. The safest crime a man can commit in Baltimore, with the privilege of removing his case to Towsonton, is murder. The chances are all in his favor if he has sense enough, or friends, or money enough to manufacture some impossible, improbable and ridiculous story upon which the jury can hang a doubt instead of hanging him.—Baltimore American, Oct. 13th.

THE STORY OF A STEAMER.—"Speaking about fast running steamboats," said Thomas Hartshorn, recently, rolling his quid into his larboard jaw and giving his Tuckapaw trousers a hitch (Mr. H. served as cook on the ram Queen of the West), "I suppose you never heard of the old Elephant that used to run between Cincinnati and New Orleans? She was a beauty. I suppose that when she was tied to the bank with a stern line and tow line she was one of the fastest boats on the river.

"She made one celebrated trip from New Orleans, I think in '47. Her time was made a matter of record. Comin' up from Orleans once the captain was sittin' at the table, and he noticed several big hulks of fellows servin' as cabin boys. He called the steward to him and says he: 'Don't you think it would look better to have boys waitin' on the table? I don't like to see men fillin' the place of cabin boys. Let em go and get some young chaps.' 'Why, blast it, captain,' says the steward, 'them fellows were boys when we left New Orleans.'"

"The Elephant," continued Mr. Hartshorn, clinging to his nautical reminiscence, "was pulling out from Memphis one day on a down trip, and somehow she got mixed up with a raft of saw logs. She broke one of the logs loose and it floated out into the stream. Then there was one of the nicest races you ever saw. There was a good stage of water and the log boomed along quite lively. For about a week they held together pretty well, but the Elephant had to land at the mouth of White river and the log beat her into New Orleans about twenty minutes. There was something wrong with the Elephant's boilers, and she couldn't make steam properly. That's what the Captain said. She was a nice boat to ship green fruit on."

THE FAMOUS ANNEKE JANS ESTATE.—Albany, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Surrogate Rogers to-day declined to grant letters of administration on the estate of Anneke Jans, petitioned for by Thomas J. Van Gissen, of New Jersey, on the ground of want of jurisdiction.

OREGON.

The Salem Record states that Mr. Daniel F. Riggs, of that city, has invented a process by which to repair cracked bells.

A party of hunters from Salem, after being out in the foothills five days, return with 18 deer, at least so says the Record.

A two story brick residence of pretentious dimensions is to be erected in Salem the coming summer by one of its well-to-do citizens.

Mr. Eugene La Forrest, of Oregon City, contemplates visiting the Sandwich Islands shortly, with a view of regaining his shattered health.

A man named Clancey was arrested in Salem last Wednesday by Deputy U. S. Marshal Williams upon a charge of selling liquor to Indians.

Mart. V. Brown, State printer and editor and proprietor of the States Rights Democrat, goes to San Francisco on the next steamer for the purpose of purchasing a power press and new dress for his paper. This looks like success in life.

On Tuesday evening last the pupils of Prof. Pope gave an entertainment in Pope's Hall, Oregon City, which was largely attended. The entertainment consisted of readings, singing, declamations, etc., and was very creditable alike to preceptor and pupils.

A meeting of the citizens of Oregon City has been called for at the Court House on Friday evening to take measures to secure the erection of the Home Manufacturing Company's works at that place. A committee appointed to solicit subscriptions, etc., will make a report to the meeting.

A course of lectures for the benefit of the Library is to be commenced in the Library rooms at Oregon City on the 16th or 23d of the present month. The following named gentlemen have accepted invitations to lecture: Rev. G. H. Atkinson, Prof. S. C. Simpson, Rev. I. S. Knight, Chaplain Van Horn, U. S. A., Vancouver, Rev. T. L. Eliot and Prof. [illegible] Campbell.

THE TERRITORIES.

A colored gentleman in Boise City was cleaning a loaded gun recently when it went off, and he could hardly be persuaded that his skull was uninjured.

The Boise City Statesman of the 7th inst. says: A private letter from Idaho City, dated Nov. 6th, to a gentleman in this city says Bennett's Republican friends in this county threw him sky high, and Fenn's majority is probably 200. Unofficial returns elect Sam Stewart by over 50 majority; Gorman, Assessor, by [illegible] majority; Moriarty, Auditor, by 50 majority; Cannady, Kingsley and Hawley (probably) to the Council, and six if not seven Democrats to the House; Moore is elected Probate Judge, and John Broadbeck beats Joe Rowe for Treasurer; Democratic County Commissioners are elected; Ainslie beats Jonas W. Brown a few votes for District Attorney. The same journal says: We learn that Gov. Bennett has 200 majority in Owyhee county. C. M. Hays, Republican candidate for Sheriff, got 190 majority; James Lyman, Rep., is elected Auditor, and Dr. Becket Treasurer; Mastin, Rep., and Angell, Dem., are elected to the Council, and the Democrats have elected their men to the Assembly with one exception. John Hallenbeck, Rep., is elected Probate Judge.

AN ACKWARD MISTAKE.

An exciting scene occurred in the Glendenning trial on Thursday, Oct. 29, a report of which we clip from the New York Times:

A rule of the Presbytery prescribes that no one expecting to testify shall be allowed in the room while another witness is testifying. And each witness as he presents himself is required to swear that he had not been previously in attendance. A young man named Dean, who testified Wednesday, swore that he had not been in the church during the taking of testimony. Yesterday Dr. Imbrie stated that he had received a card on which was the name of Rev. J. H. Jacobus, on which it was stated that Dean had sat in the audience on Tuesday and had made evidences of witnesses the subject of unfavorable criticism, and so charging Mr. Dean with having perjured himself. Mr. Jacobus, who was in the audience, was asked to step forward, and Mr. Dean was brought out from the witness room. Dean was very pale when he made his appearance and betrayed all the signs of unusual excitement. As he entered the room he asked Mr. Jacobus if he were the man he had referred to, and on being assured that he was, remarked: "How could you be so mistaken, Sir?"

At this point there was a demonstration of applause. When it had subsided Mr. Dean, asking the reverend gentleman to "remember that he was mistaken," demanded that Mr. Jacobus be sworn. The oath was administered, and Mr. Jacobus testified that on Tuesday he sat in the body of the room by the side of a man who looked very much like Dean. He was pretty positive that it was Dean, but as he did not notice him carefully he was not willing to swear that he was the same man. Mr. Dean arose and explained that there was a man in the city who looks much like him, for whom in fact he had been often mistaken, but really he had not been in the audience before he gave his evidence. On motion the whole matter was dismissed. Mutual explanations followed on all sides. The prosecution hastened to declare that they did not believe Mr. Dean had violated his oath, while the defense, whose witness had been thus assailed, declared that Mr. Jacobus had acted in good faith. Mr. Jacobus disavowed all personal feeling in the matter. Mr. Dean took him by the hand amid the laughter of the audience, and forgave him, and amid the greatest excitement the drama closed by the withdrawal of the parties to it.

AN AGED WHALE.—Whales are supposed to live to a great age, and apropos a story is told of a sailor whose boat was wrecked while he and his messmates were tossed high in the air by a mad whale's flukes. As he came down, after half an hour had elapsed, the whale waited him with open mouth, and instead of sinking as deep in the sea as he had been in the air, he slid smoothly into the whale's interior. As soon as he recovered his breath he drew out his tobacco box and helped himself to a liberal quid, which he rolled over and over in his mouth as he laughed at his adventure. Presently he arose from the soft but moist couch on which he had fallen, and surveyed the apartment, which contained many wonders, you may be sure. Some writing on one of the walls attracted his attention, and on examination it proved to be the words: "Jonah, B. C. 862." This amused him so much that the quid fell out of his mouth, and the whale at once began to writhe and show a violent dislike to nicotine. A happy idea occurred to him, and he cut his plug of tobacco into small pieces, which he distributed over the floor. The whale then heaved more violently than before, and while Jack was holding his sides at the joke he was thrown into the water and almost on board one of the ship's boats.

Some of his comrades doubted his wondrous story, but for the benefit of unbelievers he had brought back with him a pocket-knife with a buck horn handle, on which were carved Jonah's initials and an American eagle.

A Saratoga correspondent has been interviewing his barber, who says of the colored gentry at the Springs: "Dey a most all waiters, sah. I was in dat profession myself when I fus come heah." "Do you find it better to be a barber?" "Well, sah, it bain moah purmanent. Waiters only gets tree months livin any way, and I has business all de year roun. Anodder ting, Waitin' business is kin' o' undignified. You has to depend on moah dan yer wages. You has to be kin' o' hangin' roun' and puttin' out yer hand to git fees, an' it kin' o' goes agin a fellah's conscience when he has to fotch all de good tings to his boss what pays him, and lets de nex poosh fellah starve cause he hain't got no money. So I quit an' went to barberin."

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GRAND ENCAMPMENT OF THE RED CROSS.

PORTLAND, Nov. 12, 1874.

The Finance Committee submitted a report recommending the payment of bills of Temperance Publishing Co. and sundry others.

A very interesting letter was received from Past Grand Counselor S. R. Raymond, which was ordered spread upon the minutes.

The Committee on Constitution submitted a report, and the Grand Encampment went into Committee of the Whole to consider amendments proposed, Grand Counsellor Athey in the Chair.

The Constitution was amended in several important particulars, and Committee rose and reported an amended Constitution.

The Committee on Credentials reported another delegate as follows: Confidence Enc. No. 11—Sister Belle Garrison.

It was resolved that the Grand Commander have power to grant dispensation and confer degrees in less time than required by law upon unanimous request of an Encampment under seal.

The Constitution reported from Committee of the Whole was adopted.

The bonds of the Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer were fixed at $1,000 each.

Salem was elected as the next place for holding the Grand Encampment, and the second Tuesday in November, 1875, as the time.

The Grand Encampment recommended Rev. E. I. Heroy for Deputy Supreme Commander.

A committee consisting of Hewitt Rozier and Sister Johnson was appointed on Champion organ.

The committee on consultation with I. C. R. C. submitted a report containing an excellent and very kind letter from Grand Counsellor of the I. C. R. C. T. B. Handley, setting forth the benefits of a union of the two Orders, and the friendly feeling that exists between them. The report was ordered spread upon the minutes.

At the evening session Companion Wells introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That all action relating to a union or consultation with the I. C. R. C. be reconsidered and erased from the minutes. That a committee of one be appointed to recommend resolutions as to what action this Grand Encampment shall take in the premises.

Companion Wells was appointed as such committee, who submitted the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The aims and objects of the Champions of the Red Cross and of the I. C. R. C. are understood to be in the main identical, and whereas in union there is strength; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Grand Encampment that the members of the two organizations should be marshaled under the same standard and with common implements of warfare.

Resolved, That any propositions coming from the I. C. R. C. tending to this consummation will be treated with the respect that their importance requires.

Resolved, That a committee consisting of G. Coin, A. F. Johnson, Rev. N. A. Starr and Enoch Turner, who shall entertain all propositions coming within the Constitution of this Order and report the same with recommendations to the next Grand Encampment, and in the interim communicate with the Supreme Council on this subject if thought necessary.

Whenever a newspaper is filled from day to day with puffs of itself, and blusterings about its enterprise, its freshness, its rapidly increasing subscription list and the like, it may be safely set down as in a very embarrassed condition. The Herald's demise all our Portland readers recollect. It began to declare itself "the only live paper in Portland," "the paper that 'kept abreast of the times,'" "the most prosperous paper in the State," "the fresh newspaper," &c. Some people stared in mute astonishment, and waited with bated breath for the down fall of all its competitors, but men acquainted with newspaper business smiled and said quietly, "A few weeks more at most." And sure enough the readers of the "fresh" newspaper read one morning at the head of the editorial columns the announcement that that was the last issue of the Herald, accompanied, if we rightly remember, by a remarkable and wholly uncalled for confession that for some time past its editorials had been mostly filched from other papers. Its material went under the hammer at the end of a proceeding in bankruptcy. Newspaper diseases as well as diseases of the human body have their symptoms.

SURPRISING THE STREET BOYS.—The remarkable success that has attended the opening of the night school for homeless boys at the Rivington street lodging house of the Children's Aid Society is gratifying alike to those immediately connected with its management and the numerous ladies and gentlemen to whose benevolence the institution owes its existence. The life of these boys is so full of change and excitement that the attractions of an ordinary school would to them be flat, stale and unprofitable. In order to be able to interest a large school of city Arabs the teacher must be nothing short of an encyclopedia. The Rivington street lodging house has the good fortune to receive the patronage of some of our best citizens, who are always ready to extend a helping hand to these poor street lads. Last night they were agreeably surprised by the entrance of two gentlemen who go about continually doing good. These gentlemen have been the means of raising hundreds of destitute families in all parts of the city to a position where they could help themselves, and last night they placed in the hands of the Superintendent a handsome sum, to be devoted to the purpose of starting poor boys in business. The boys, of course, were delighted to hear this and passed a very hearty vote of thanks to the generous donors. The boys were further delighted by the entrance of Mr. J. W. Skinner, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society's Schools. Mr. Skinner made a very interesting address, and expressed his satisfaction at the way the boys acquitted themselves.—[illegible] Oct. 24.

HOW A PEDAGOGUE MAKES LOVE.—Mr. Mills, Southside School Superintendent, says the Indianapolis Sentinel, puts out examination questions for teachers in a way peculiar to himself, winding up every question with "If so, why?" or "if not, why not?" One of the teachers tells this story about him. She said she boarded once at the same place where his girl boarded. One night he came, rang the bell, and asked the servant, "Is Miss [illegible] in, and if so, why? Is she engaged, and why?" Then he went in, and the little tattletale listening at the keyhole heard him say: "My darling, do you love me? If not, why not?" After awhile: "Give a synopsis of your employment during the week. Analyze thoroughly and completely the state of your sentiments toward me." When he left, after kissing her, he remarked: "Be prepared on next Sunday at half past 2 P. M. to state accurately and concisely when, where, and by whom and under what circumstances our marriage shall be performed."

DEMOCRATIC JUBILEE.—A Boston dispatch dated on the night of the election says: The Democrats held an immense jubilation meeting this evening. Gen. Banks, Tarbox, Warren Abbott and others made speeches. There was tremendous enthusiasm, and all the Democratic candidates were cheered for several minutes at a time. An immense crowd have been on the streets all evening and are perfectly wild with enthusiasm. The Sixteenth Ward, formerly the town of Dorchester, gives Gaston a majority, the first Democratic majority for forty years. The great excitement prevailed over the defeat of Butler, which was totally unexpected up to 11 o'clock P. M.

A GRATEFUL SOLDIER.

[From the Monongahela City Republican.]

During the war a soldier lay sick in a fever hospital, with parched lips and hot breath, growing almost weary of life. In his ravings he talked of home and mother and flowers. A comrade listened, and, being himself convalescing, he helped him, cooled his lips with ice and soothed his brow. When the soldier got well, for this kindness and comforting drove away the fever, he expressed his gratitude to his comrade and said: "Billy, you will never lose anything by what you have done for me." And so they parted, each to the front and in the fray. Years passed away, the war was over, and the sixties grew into the seventies. On October 12th the one who had nursed his fellow, but had since heard nothing from him, received the following:

"Wm. B. Bright—DEAR SIR: As attorney for your late friend C. R. Sykes, now deceased, I have to inform you that by his will you are the heir to his entire fortune, which is $50,000 in Government bonds, being a 'testamentary remembrance of your kindness to him while sick in a fever hospital near Warrenton,' as the will says. You will please advise me by return mail. Yours respectfully, ..."

Our citizens will remember Billy, the "lucky boy," as a cabinet maker, formerly of the firm of O'Donovan & Bright, of this city, now a resident of Mount Pleasant, Penn. It makes a bright spot in this world of forgetfulness and ingratitude to find a case of remembered kindness like this.

A MAGIC FAN.—The Nashville Banner says: A Rocktown maiden has invented a new method of dismissing tiresome beaux. When they call in the evening and remain until 10 o'clock she rises quickly, and walking over to the clock, which is ticking on the mantel, winds it up, exclaiming (unconsciously, of course), "Dear me, how late it is, and the nights are so short." If they don't take the hint she suddenly becomes very warm and fans herself violently. Her fan is a model in every respect. It has the words, "Young man, does your mother know you're out?" painted on one side in small letters, while the other side is blank. She adroitly turns the side with the inscription toward the young man, who, glancing at it, suddenly remembers that he must be at home by 10:30 o'clock certain. She, of course, politely inquires why his haste, and he, murmuring an excuse, bids her good night, and flies from her presence forever. Her real lover is never permitted to see that side of the fan.

A distinguished clergyman, Dr. Hawes, used to say that his style of preaching was moulded by the criticisms of Dr. Emmons on a single sermon. Dr. Hawes read a paper to his tutor exuberant with rhetoric. "Joel," said the Sage, "I kept school once. When I punished the boys I always stripped the leaves off the rod"—drawing an imaginary rod through the fingers.

FRIDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 13, 1874.

ON TRIAL.

Since the late elections, many thoughtful persons have expressed in our [illegible] doubts whether the whites of the South, having regained control of the local governments and feeling the moral [illegible] a triumphant Democracy at the North, would bear themselves with such moderation as would vindicate the judgment of those who have claimed for them the same entire freedom from Federal interference which is enjoyed at the North We con- [illegible] class To expect that toleration toward the colored people, which their condition demands, at the hands of the Southern people is to expect them to put aside the prejudices of their early education, and, in a [illegible] effort to rise superior to the control of personal feelings, forget the bitterness of the last few years' rule, to an extent never yet witnessed among men But they can respect the legal rights of the colored people, and, when called upon, enforce those legal rights [illegible] what it is feared they will not do

Governor Baxter's message to the Arkansas Legislature, [illegible] fairly represented in the dispatches elsewhere published, will [illegible] ce of the victorious Democracy in the [illegible] direction He appreciates the situation, and offers just the advice that is needed Baxter was elected as a Republican over Brooks, Republican also, two years since, but he has been for some time acting with the Democracy He is, therefore, hardly to be taken as a fair type of the Southern Democrat He is more liberal than the best representative of that class If they have the discretion and the self-control to accept his message as the keystone of their policy in dealing with Republicans, black and white, they will thereby show themselves to have entered in good faith into the reforms demanded by the times, and will, in all probability, hold the reins of government in the Southern States for an indefinite period, but if, drunk with victory and mad with revenge, they attempt to deprive the colored people and the Northern people, who have settled among them of that equality of rights which the Constitution guarantees to them, there is but one course for the Government, but one duty for all Republicans, and that is to see that the laws are enforced and the rights of all classes respected, even by the use of force, if necessary The Southern people are now on trial The period of their probation is till the next biennial election

PUSH IT FORWARD

The action of the Board of Trade in relation to the subject of immigration, in response to the communication from the Immigration Commissioners, sets the project of procuring private aid in the [illegible] of the commission fairly on its feet. It should now be pushed If it be allowed to sink out of notice, it will be more difficult to resurrect than if this step had not been taken. The subject is one that ought to engage the attention of everybody who is [illegible] ed in the development of the resources of the State. The [illegible] precedent to any material progress in that direction [illegible] and the plan adopted by the Commission and the Board of Trade is, under the circumstances, the only [illegible] one. It is the right [illegible] and will be successful if the people but render such assistance as they can render without [illegible] in the least [illegible] each will make a sum sufficient in the aggregate to enable the Commission to accomplish no little in the way of receiving and welcoming immigrants who arrive, directing them to those places which their occupations best fit them for, and giving them such other information as they will need on arriving in a strange land. It will also enable the Commission to scatter information abroad con[illegible] the unequalled inducements Oregon offers to those in the older States and Europe who think of going West to better their condition

A QUESTION OF BOOK-KEEPING.

In the report of Representative Gearin and Senator Clark, from the Joint Committee to investigate the accounts of the Penitentiary [illegible] that "the [illegible] of the Superintendent have been kept in a loose and un[illegible] manner"

We have just received a note of Watkinds, the Superintendent, referring to the above statement in the Report, and enclosing [illegible] be published, the following

Card:

Salem, Nov 11, 1874

We the undersigned have carefully examined the books and accounts of the Superintendent of the Or[illegible] Penitentiary, of which institution Mr R. H Dearborn is book keeper, and we find that these books and accounts have been kept in a neat, business-like manner and are correct

MEETINGS OF GRANGERS.

The attention of the members of subordinate Granges in Polk, Marion, Washington and Yamhill counties, is called to the notice of Hon Dan'l Clark, Master of the State Grange, which will be found in another column The [illegible] is now [illegible] date, and it is desirable that it should be circulated as widely and as quickly as possible

If Gen Butler is on the rampage, as a dispatch this morning declares, he is very likely to [illegible] it exceedingly tropical for some of his enemies Old Ben lacks [illegible] nerve nor shrewdness, and he will not hesitate on conscientious grounds about the ways and means of accomplishing results. We predict those whom he proposes to attack will do as Davy Crockett's coon did Come down without waiting for him to shoot

The President says in his Thanksgiving proclamation "It is fitting that at [illegible] periods we should cease from our accustomed pursuits Landaulets, salary grabs, and all that sort of thing you know" Let us have peace!

Some people consider plagiarism the meanest sort of pilfering, but the Bulletin [illegible] it merely "being fresh"

WHAT ONE MAN CAN DO

The faculty of turning off a great amount of work, is universally admired. It is a thing to be proud of, for it not only enables one to accomplish great results for himself, but it gives him reputation an[illegible] [illegible] almost any other talent It is therefore with a feeling of professional admiration for the editor of the Bulletin, as well as humiliation for ourselves, that we read in that paper this modest little comparison of his achievements with our own feeble efforts.

When the two editors of the OREGONIAN look over the fresh and well filled columns of the Bulletin and consider that the paper is got out by one man who gives three fourths of his time to other business, while they sweat and blow from early morn to midnight to get out their dull sheet, they straightway say each to the other. "This Bulletin is a rock of offense, yea, a block of stumbling in our sight, for when both papers are read by the same person a reflection will be cast upon our incapacity" And therefore they say that we don't write our editorials Jealousy my lads Don't be foolish Don't gnaw a file

In humble contrition we confess that we did indiscreetly make some remarks upon the frequent coincidences between the Bulletin's editorials and articles in other papers, which might be construed into insinuations that the Bulletin man had seen these articles just before writing his own In other words we intimated in the most courteous and civil manner that the editor of the Bulletin was a literary pilferer And now having got into this scrape, we don't see any way out of it but to prove the truth of our charge We therefore present, in parallel columns, a comparison of one of the Bulletin's leading editorials with an editorial article in the New York Nation

[From The Nation, Oct. 8.]	[From Bulletin, Oct. 24]
The great function it discharges toward modern society, and the one which has produced the most striking social and industrial results is the equalization of distances from the [illegible] markets. That is to say the most valuable and important thing it has done for the world is the putting of producers who live far away on an equality with those who live near by * * * It has absolutely called the West into existence, by enabling the Illinois and Wisconsin farmer to sell in New York and Liverpool at as low rates as the Pennsylvania or English farmer Now this result has been and is achieved solely by dis[illegible]tion,' which seems on the surface to the enraged and ill informed farmer to be unjust, but which is in reality both wise and just.	The great function which a railroad discharges to the people and the one which has produced the most striking [illegible] is the equalizing of distances and bringing the remote sections of the country into active competition with those near by the market. In this view the railroad has created the great west * * The locomotive called the great active west into existence, and made it what it is by discrimination against the farmers of Pennsylvania Maryland and the New England States No man could send a bushel of grain from the heart of Illinois Iowa, or any other Western State if he was charged pro rata with the farmer in Pennsylvania and New York

Still more striking is the coincidence between these paragraphs.

[From the Nation's Editorial.]	[From the Bulletin Editorial.]
The evidence given on this point before the English Railroad Commission th[illegible] showed that without discrimination in favor of localities far from London vast manufactories in the interior would be destroyed and thousands of operatives thrown out of employment through inability to compete with producers near the market and on the seaboard illustrations vastly more forcible than this might be adduced from the history of our own railroads. There ought, therefore to be dis[illegible] [illegible] the whole the interests of railroads on this point coincide with those of the public. That is, whatever [illegible] the [illegible] time of their own business, will probably be that which will most promote the [illegible] welfare When therefore, the farmer demands that the railroad shall charge at the same rate for carrying goods from St Paul to Milwaukee that it charges for [illegible] St. Paul to New York even if the rate of cost were actually the same which it is not, he ought not to be listened to any more than the good for nothing [illegible] who asks that no bricklayer shall be allowed to lay more bricks in a day than weak and lazy bricklayers find convenient. We are now of course talking of honest discrimination on business principles Discrimination in favor of individuals or fraud, or vindictive discrimination against particular places we would treat as criminal and punish by heavy penalties, and this is where legislators eager for work might find a field for thoughtful activity The clamor about the amount of stock and [illegible] are saddled and on which the farmer has to pay interest, [illegible] in the main [illegible] and an illustration of the part words often play in darkening counsel Railroads have been for the last forty years constructed in the United States on the only theory on which they [illegible] constructed viz., that they were an extremely ha[illegible] particularly in the sparsely settled [illegible] There, a large portion of them were constructed not to meet the wants of busy communities like New York and Philadelphia, or Liverpool and Manchester but to open the way through a wilderness for a possible population. To have [illegible] practical business men therefore as an ordinary investment would have been preposterous and have excited laughter They were therefore offered as enterprises containing enormous risks, but at the same time holding out some [illegible] very high profits. They, in fact bore in their commercial aspects a close resemblance to blockade running In most cases however, the prospect of profit was not sufficiently strong to induce moneyed men to touch them at all without aid in the shape of landgrants or money which were offered and accepted as business transactions The rate at which the bonds were sold and the amount of bonus given in stock to purchasers were all controlled by the same great fact the unwillingness of prudent people to buy them at all or in other words the commercial rule that you must sell very low what but few persons want	The evidence given on this point before the English Railroad Commission [illegible] showed that, without discrimination in favor of localities far from London vast manufactories in the interior would be destroyed, and thousands of operatives thrown out of employment through inability to compete with producers near the market and on the seaboard Illustrations vastly more forcible than this might be adduced from the history of our own railroads. There ought, therefore, to be discrimination, and it will be [illegible] that, on the whole, the interests of railroads on this point coincide with those of the public. That is what ever discrimination the [illegible] swelling the volume of their own business will probably be that which will most promote the general welfare When therefore the farmer demands that the railroad shall charge at the same rate for carrying goods from St Paul to Milwaukee that it charges [illegible] St. Paul to New York even if the rate of costs were actually the same which it is not he ought not to be listened to any more than the [illegible] bricklayer who asks that no bricklayer shall be allowed to lay more bricks in a day than weak and lazy bricklayers find convenient We are now of course talking of honest discrimination on business principles Discrimination in favor of individuals or fraud, or vindictive discrimination against particular places we would treat as criminal and punish by heavy penalties and this is where legislators eager for work might find a field for thoughtful activity The clamor about the amount of stock and bonds [illegible] railroads are saddled and on which the farmer has to [illegible] hold to [illegible] and an illustration of the part words often play in darkening counsel Railroads have been for the last forty years constructed in the United States on the only theory on which they [illegible] been constructed, viz that they were an extremely [illegible] particularly in the sparse settled [illegible] regions There a large portion of them are constructed not to meet the wants of busy communities like New York and Philadelphia, or Liverpool and Manchester, but to open the way through a wilderness for a possible population. We close with a specimen somewhat "marred in the stealing."

[From the Nation's Editorial.]	[From the Bulletin's Editorial.]
So that after brushing away all the cant about [illegible] watered stock greedy speculators, [illegible] tished farmers, grinding taxation we get at the naked truth of the whole matter, which is, that money used in West[illegible] railroad building [illegible], owing to the [illegible] nature of the enterprise, to be borrowed from people of a speculative turn at a very heavy discount.	So that after shutting our ears to all the din about greedy speculators, impoverished farmers, [illegible] grinding monopolies, and digging down to the bottom and impartially weighing this whole matter, we find the naked truth in nine cases out of every ten railways built in this country to be that the money used in their construction had on account of the risky nature of the enterprise to be borrowed at a heavy discount from people of a speculative turn of mind

What wonder that we should be jealous enough to "gnaw a file" when we have a [illegible] adequate to the [illegible] for a daily [illegible] in one-fourth of his time leaving three-fourths to divide between licking Holladay's feet and acting as Secretary of his railway monopoly! And then, the paper made up by this process is so very 'fresh' too Indeed, it is about the "freshest" thing we have seen considering all the circumstances.

Since the Bulletin has introduced the new idea of journalism namely, that in order to make a paper 'fresh' its leading articles must be filched from other papers, we cheerfully admit the Bulletin is the freshest paper we ever saw

When the Bulletin's notions become the law of the land instead of sending petty larceny thieves to jail, the Courts will praise them for being so delightfully 'fresh'

The Irish Nationalist accuses the Salem Statesman of being a 'fresh' paper, that is, filching from the Nationalist The Statesman's reply, we think, completely vindicates it against the charge The Bulletin is the 'fresh' paper

B F Dowell has been restored to the right to practice as an attorney in the Treasury Department and notifies holders of Indian war claims of 1855 6 that he is ready to proceed with the collection of such claims

The apology of the editor of the Bulletin that he puts only one-fourth of his time on that paper was wholly needless The columns of the Bulletin show it.

DESCRIPTION OF A NEW THEATER WHICH IS BEING CONSTRUCTED IN THE SECOND STORY OF CENTRAL MARKET—IT PROMISES TO BE ONE OF THE LARGEST AND FINEST STRUCTURES OF THE KIND ON THE COAST

One of the long recognized wants of this community is a suitable theater not only where can be presented the legitimate drama, but where entertainments of a musical and literary character could be given, and public meetings held It is not that we would speak in terms of disparagement of Oro Fino Theater which has so long served the purposes of the drama in Portland but the increase in population and importance of the city, and also the cultivation and improvement of public taste in dramatic matters has rendered for several years a larger and more commodious building one of the necessary requirements of the times For some years the subject of erecting a new theater in Portland has been gravely discussed by several enterprising gentlemen of the city but the very important and pertinent question of "Will it Pay" which has generally been solved negatively, has thus far placed a veto on operations in that direction Within the last three weeks the subject has again been agitated with far more satisfactory results

Captain Ankeny, who has in matters of substantial improvements ever evinced a spirit of commendable enterprise was induced to take hold of the project and has entered into the scheme with his accustomed activity and determination He has concluded to go forward and complete the second story of the Central Market which was originally constructed with express reference to being used as a theater

About ten days ago a number of carpenters began work on the interior of the building to make the necessary alterations and improvements Messrs Krumbein & Gilbert the well known architects have been employed for some time in preparing plans and specifications for the new theater which they have nearly completed The building when completed will retain its present name "Ankeny's Hall" notwithstanding the dramatic purposes to which it is to be dedicated The interior of the hall will be finished on the same principle as Booth's Theater in New York but reduced in dimensions in proportion to the building. The stage will be 50x30 feet and will include green room dressing rooms etc The height of the proscenium is to be 26 feet On each side of the proscenium will be arranged two tier of boxes The gallery will be semi circular in form extending across the building It is proposed to fit up the gallery, proscenium boxes, etc, in a very neat handsome manner harmonizing in finish and taste with the interior of the theater There are to be 12 sets of scenes which will be manipulated as occasion requires by means of machinery There will be no light woodwork about the tops of the scenes as can be found in many theaters All the frames which support and keep in position the scenes that have to be frequently shifted will be made of iron Even the grooves in which the flats are slid to and fro, will be of iron Iron has been substituted for wood wherever it is possible to add to the general efficiency of manipulating the scenes, and also to guard against the liabilities of fire. As a still further precaution against this dreaded element, there will be provided a fire proof scene dock which will be used as a receptacle for storing away the scenes whenever they are not actually required

To the rear of the stage will be placed the large green room finely finished and furnished with all the necessary stage accessories and appointments Next to the green room will be placed the shop for the use of the stage carpenter a paint gallery for the scenic artist, property room and ten dressing rooms the latter for the use of the members of the company No expense or pains are to be spared by Capt Ankeny to have everything complete and perfect Every appliance requisite to the proper production of any play will be furnished and actors and actresses who in the future will be fortunate enough to appear at Ankeny's Hall, will find that their personal comfort and convenience has been expressly provided for Eight hundred persons it is calculated the hall will comfortably accommodate when finished The size of the hall designed to contain the audience will be 72x57 feet It will be divided into an orchestra parquette dress circle and gallery The s[eats] used in the orchestra will be of Nolan's patent, finished off in good style and upholstered with plush.

The ornamentation of the interior of the hall in front of the stage will be of an architectural design appropriate to the character of the building and the scroll work will be of China white and gold coloring, while the lining back of the ornamental panel work will be of a carmine hue which will present a handsome finished aspect to the whole interior and lend an air of artistic grace to all the surroundings The auditorium will be brilliantly illuminated by a center chandelier composed of seventy five gas jets while from the gallery will be numerous dropped bracket lights sufficient with the aid of the central chandelier to shed down a flood of light. The general arrangement of light about the stage will be admirably arranged so as to secure the desired lights and shades in order to lend to the play the intensity of scenic effect

Ventilation has not been overlooked in the plan of the Theater and abundant provisions will be made to keep the auditorium supplied with pure wholesome air Acoustics so necessary in a Theater has not been neglected and the arrangement of the interior of the hall will be such as to give the best possible results The building will be heated by means of hot air pipes which are to be introduced from the outside so as to successfully guard against the possibilities of fire An abundance of water will be introduced into the building, and especially behind the scenes which can be brought into invaluable services in the event of fire. On the right of the main entrance—which will be from First street—will be arranged a cloak and hat room of ample dimensions where ladies and gentlemen on entering the Theater can deposit in a secure place these articles On the left side of the entrance will be situated the ticket and manager's office. Persons on entering the hall will ascend the broad stairway leading up on the southern side of Central Market but arrangements will be effected so that when the performance is concluded and the audience start away a number of large folding doors which all open on the outside will be thrown apart and the people can make their exit by means of stair ways on each side of the building. In the event of fire or accident this precaution will be of great convenience

The gallery which will be the receptacle for the hoodlum element will be separated or rather isolated from the other portions of the building and the more respectable portion of the audience will enjoy an immunity from the usual annoyance of boisterous or indecorous conduct. Those entering the gallery will pass up by a separate staircase and will purchase their tickets at another office conveniently arranged These hoodlums will not be allowed to stand about the doorways or head of the stairs as a railing will fence them off To guard against accident or misconduct a special policeman will be employed whose duty it will be to be around and enforce strict decorum

Work is being crowded forward as rapidly as possible and it is the present intention to have the new theater ready to open on or before the 1st of January 1875 Messrs W G Gilbert & Co are to be the lessees of the new theater A good stock company has already been engaged and it is the intention of the lessees to obtain from San Francisco and the East from time to time the best stellar attractions A very experienced stage carpenter has been engaged from the East who will superintend the work pertaining to that portion of the building A competent scenic artist has also been engaged to paint the scenes who will commence work in a few days Mr W G Gilbert will leave on the out going steamer for San Francisco where he goes to complete some necessary business arrangements connected with the enterprise

Thousands of dollars will be required to complete this theater but it is Capt Ankeny's intention to make it equal to the largest and best furnished place of amusement on the coast and a pride to the city

Many persons who are wanting in natural vigor endeavor to supply the deficiency by constantly dosing themselves with drugs (often of a very pernicious nature) which they are credulous enough to mistake for invigorants There can be no doubt that many lives are shortened in this way All that such person require is a pure vegetable tonic which like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters also possesses the regulating properties necessary to rectify those organic disturbances which are but the result of weakness The feeble and the nervous cannot be too earnestly advised to abandon the dangerous practice of swallowing mineral tonics sedatives and vegetable alkaloids which disorder the stomach and produce the most hurtful reactions and to substitute in their place this standard strengthening cordial and corrective The numerous disorders proceeding from debility of the nervous system as well as of the stomach liver and bowels

EX-SENATOR DOOLITTLE ON THE PRESIDENT'S SALARY—HE SPEAKS AS PLAINLY AS EVER CONGRESSMAN WILLARD DID—AN INTERESTING REVIEW OF FORMER OCCUPANTS OF THE WHITE HOUSE

[From an Address delivered at Kenosha (Wis) by Judge J R Doolittle Oct 29 1874]

When the Republic of Carthage had lost her virtue and Hannibal sought to hinder public thieves from plundering her treasury what do we see? Instead of rousing her citizens against the plunderers they complained of Hannibal to the Romans They implored the destroyers of the country to save them their riches to save the means of gratifying their pleasures at the price of losing their liberties

Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey
Where wealth accumulates and men decay

Oh my fellow citizens of Wisconsin! I am hopeful by nature As a matter of duty also I strive to look upon the bright side of all things But I should be false to you and to myself if I did not declare, in the most earnest manner that the growth of extravagance luxury and corruption in public and private life, within the last fifteen years, fills me with

for the future of the Republic.

When first I went to Washington in 1857 there was no such thing as an aristocracy of wealth Men were respected not for their money but for what they were for themselves for their talents and character however modest and simple their manners or their apartments To-day men in Congress and in the Executive D[illegible] put on the airs and ape the manners of Princes and aristocrats They are waited upon by footmen in livery, and, by their example and conduct unconsciously perhaps are doing all in their power to [illegible] American youth and inspire in them a spirit of contempt for Republican ideas Republican simplicity manners and life

At that time such a thing as official corruption was hardly known One member of the House was involved, and promptly expelled One also in the Senate. He resigned to avoid a similar fate. To-day it threatens to

of the people in Congress and in the Executive Departments The investigations of last winter amongst other things, brought out the fact that the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations received $5 000 to go before the Board of Public Works of Washington to ask a contract for street pavement He knew and the Board knew what everybody knows that the Board depended mainly upon him to carry the desired appropriations to fulfill that contract through the House of Representatives

I speak of this fact, which also came to my knowledge professionally not that it is worse or greater than many other cases, but to show how great a change has come over us

So great has been the increase of luxury and extravagance at Washington that the late increase of salary of members of Congress and of the President has been urged as necessary As the increase of the salary of the members has been repealed, I will confine myself to the question of

which was increased from $25 000 to $50,000 per annum upon the plea that it is necessary to support the dignity of the position and the hospitalities of the [illegible] Mansion

Such an increase was, in my judgment as unnecessary, as it was unwise and evil in example. Let me state some facts to show this

The President's house gardens, conservatories and stables, are all furnished and kept in perfect order in all their [illegible] at public expense, stewards and doorkeepers, [illegible] band of music for all public receptions, are furnished without one dollar's expense to the President. All the furniture, carpets, beds, tables, [illegible] which convenience or luxury can desire, are furnished by the Government. The whole [illegible] is also warmed and lighted throughout all this at an expense to the Public Treasury of $60,000 to $70 000

But you may ask me What [illegible]

out of his salary?

He pays his cooks, the waiters upon his table, [illegible], and the servants who wait upon his family and guests he pays for what is eaten and drank at his table By custom, it is expected of the President to give several State dinners and in the course of the year to entertain each member of Congress, the Judges of the Courts, the Foreign Ministers, his Cabinet, and occasionally distinguished strangers,—in all probably 500 persons If such dinners should cost $10 for each person, $5,000 would cover that expense Of the $20,000 remaining $10,000 ought to pay his other family expenses That would leave him $10 000 per annum clear.

Now what does experience show? Let me state some instances Mr Polk, of Tennessee and while Mrs Polk that accomplished lady was in the White House it was never more popular, saved about $40,000 out of four years salaries —about $10 000 a year

Mr Pierce did the same Mr Buchanan did nearly the same. Mr Lincoln when elected President, was worth about $30 000 and his estate upon his death, was about $75 000 It must be borne in mind too that Mr Lincoln received his salary in greenbacks when they were not worth over 60 [illegible] gold and when prices were highest

Mr Johnson saved from his salary in three years and a half $20,000 or $30 000 and that too, when greenbacks were still at a discount of 25 per cent And [illegible] not be forgotten,

NONE OF THESE PRESIDENTS EVER ACCEPTED PRESENTS

Mr John[illegible]

Whatever may be said in criticism of Mr Johnson's public course, all parties agree that the White House was never more gracefully kept and presided over [illegible] Mrs Patterson,—a perfect lady and a model of a Republican mistress of the White House Let me tell you a fact which has never been published, but which I had from the lady's own lips Just as she was about to leave at the end of Mr. Johnson's Administration, the steward of the House took an inventory and found that not one article of furniture was missing or broken not a silver towel, or napkin was lost and the house was in perfect order from top to bottom She told me another fact, which I know the wives and daughters of the farmers of Wisconsin will be glad to hear When she went into the White House she purchased two [illegible] cows. From the milk of these cows she made all the butter, used all the cream and made all the ice-cream, used in the President's family during his term When she went home she shipped these cows to Tennessee. Is it any wonder ladies that Mrs Patterson received the first premium on butter at their late fair, last fall?

By referring to these facts to show that

to support the President of the Republic, so long [illegible] Republican ideas and Republican simplicity of life and manners do not understand me as wanting in respect personally, to President Grant, or to his accomplished and most excellent lady. If Congress appropriates to the President a salary of $50 000 I do not condemn him for accepting it. But it would have been far better not to have made such an increase I need not be told that the President and Mrs. Grant could not have lived in good Republican style, like those who preceded them, for $25,000 a year They had been accustomed in early life to a small income and Mrs Grant, like Mrs Patterson could have maintained with elegance, dignity and grace the Republican simplicity and manners of the White House I refer to this increase only as a fact to show to what extent the love of display and pageant of luxury and extravagance had taken hold of Congress to pass such a law

The evil consequences of luxury and extravagance have reached not only men in political life but men in social life and even in high places in the Church leading into temptations falsehood and ignominy beyond expression

An American appeared in the parquet of a London theater with his coat and trowsers very much torn and disarranged Some people thought he had been sitting on the ragged edge of despair but in reality he had fought with the doorkeeper about leaving his overcoat in the lobby as is customary

HOW BUTLER TAKES IT —In the East the defeat of Butler and Ayer is hailed with satisfaction even by the Republican press Butler takes it coolly, and says that, "If the Republican party can stand its losses I think I can stand my share"

Latest Liverpool [illegible] to a quiet market Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d to 10s 4d for average and 10s 4d @10s 10d for club per cental The London market is quoted at [illegible] 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and [illegible] per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown

The money market owing to the heavy draught made upon the banks by those engaged in moving the wheat crop still rules very tight the supply at hand being altogether inadequate for present [illegible] There were to-day some inquiries upon the part of agriculturists for advances upon wheat stored at various points along the river but we believe all of them were denied upon the ground of the scarcity of means First class commercial paper is readily discounted at the usual rate while for outside paper there is no call except through brokers There were sundry exciting rumors upon the street again this morning in regard to the reported failures in San Francisco but as no dispatches were received confirming the news the excitement quieted down as the day waned and the impression gained ground that after all it was only a canard

In the general merchandise market to-day trade was a shade brisker than on yesterday but by no means as active as we might reasonably expect at this season of the year Some buyers from the eastern portion of the State were upon the market to-day selecting such goods as they were in need of and various orders were received from the same direction and also from Sound ports Trade from the interior portions of the valley is sluggish and merchants seem inclined to procrastinate buying as long as possible in order that they may begin the year upon as good a footing as possible The volume of trade during the first ten months of the year compares very favorably with that for the same period during the two previous years and we doubt not but that at the close the result will show a satisfactory increase The low price of wheat the present season has of course operated to the disadvantage of trade but upon the whole there is no just cause of complaint since there have been but few losses made as compared with former years and that too at a time when our trade is constantly expanding

The stocks of Sandwich Island sugars in market have been running very low of late and for a week or two past the market has been entirely bare of the higher grades The difficulty is, however, obviated by the opportune arrival of the bark Mattie Macleay and barkentine Jane A Falkinburg the former consigned to Corbitt & Macleay and the latter to Allen & Lewis

The Wheat Market

The receipts of wheat continue heavy and notwithstanding the number of vessels that are being dispatched to the United Kingdom each week the stocks are increasing The near approach of the large fleet of vessels chartered prior to arrival to carry wheat to the English market admonishes exporters to be prepared and consequently they are in the market for all that offers at prices ranging from $1 ¾ to $1 37½ per cental Holders throughout the country, with the usual exceptions, have become convinced that there is no real prospect for any marked advance in the values of wheat in this market and as a consequence have either concluded to sell or ship Should the Liverpool market advance ninety days hence, it could not affect this market very materially as the seeking vessels will all have been disposed of by that time and holders of charters will aim to make good the losses of the season by [illegible] the market rates beyond that figure which would debar profitable exportation by way of San Francisco The present quotations of wheat in San Francisco are buoyed up and maintained by the disengaged vessels [illegible] which would gladly close for a direct port at [illegible] When these vessels are disposed of values must decline as parties having high priced vessels on their hands will have no competitors in the field, and can consequently name their own prices To-day shipping grades of wheat in San Francisco were quoted at $1 52 per cental with freights to Europe at [illegible]

There are some three or four vessels on the market at this time seeking wheat charters and we understand that negotiations looking to the closing of the whole of them are now under consideration

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

[From the Indianapolis Journal—Senator Morton's organ]

[illegible] Grant is too dignified to make any [illegible] about the third term business. [illegible] then the American pe[illegible] will [illegible] They are not so dignified as all that "Dignity" is what prevents the P[illegible] from [illegible] anything about the third term [illegible] But dignity does not prevent him from attending Boss Shepherd's banquets President Grant declares that it would be "undignified" for him to make any declaration in regard to a third term before the [illegible] has been "formally brought to his attention" A super abundance of dignity is sometimes a bad thing

[From the Cincinnati Gazette—Administration Republican]

We have expressed our views upon this subject before. Precedent, which in the [illegible] of the American people is as [illegible] as a plain Constitutional provision, has put it out of the question And so sensitive are the people upon this point that except under extra[illegible] circumstances they may always be [illegible] to oppose a second term even This [illegible] should now be regarded as settled [illegible] the Democratic leaders having got hold of the club, which they have [illegible] with more or less effect, it is not likely they will drop it until President Grant steps out of his way to dispose of it He may do so now with almost as [illegible] propriety as if the nomination had [illegible] tendered him, and in order that he may not be misunderstood, and there may not be a [illegible] of excuse for saying when he shall have retired from office to the shades of private life, that he sought or desired a third term It would be proper for him, as it was in the case of Washington to inform his countrymen that he is not a candidate for a third term, and that he appreciates the [illegible] which marked eight years as the [illegible] of the official life of a President of the United States.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial—Ind[illegible]

[illegible] the President will hear from the [illegible] that he will not be [illegible] Already there is something of a [illegible] Governor Dix was [illegible] by the people in New York city on Monday [illegible] to define his position as to a third [illegible] and recognizing that the [illegible] joke he responded that he was against the third term. After this the President might [illegible] without damaging [illegible] indeed, he did speak at the Cabinet [illegible] Saturday but only to express his [illegible] for newspaper [illegible] It would have been easy for him to say that his ambition would be satisfied with a term of service in the high[illegible] office [illegible] to that of W[illegible] son and Jackson The fact that he did not will exercise an unfavorable influence upon the Republican party in New York

INSURING THEIR OWN LIVES

We find the following in a New York exchange

Railroad conductors find it so difficult to induce insurance companies to insure their lives except by the [illegible] enormous premiums, that they have [illegible] to insure one another The seventh [illegible] Convention of the Railway Conductors' Life Insurance Association [illegible] met at St. Louis, and the report of its financial [illegible] showed that [illegible] conductors [illegible] violent [illegible] for a period of [illegible] consecutive years Since the [illegible] of the Association, in 1868 it has been joined by 5,868 conductors Of these only seventy have been unenviably smashed and only thirty three have been disabled It is well known that many more brakemen firemen and engineers are killed in the course of a year [illegible] the latter having the [illegible] of seating themselves in the last car after the tickets are collected, and thus surviving the collision which smashes their subordinates [illegible] a conductor is always in danger of [illegible] death, and on board the railway trains which cross the Western plains he is, moreover exposed to the hazards of battle and murder at the hands of roaming Apaches or traveling gamblers

There is some cause for anxiety in England over the decrease in the number of persons devoted to agriculture In a population of 22 712 [illegible] in 1871 there were but 1 820 003 male and f[illegible] laborers against 2,084,[illegible] in 1861 The decrease in the ten years between 1861 and 1871 was 159 55[illegible] The chief cause of the decrease is undoubtedly the condition of land ownership in that country, under which the ambition of the farmer is checked rather than stimulated The farmer's son sees a better prospect in the workshop than on the farm and the cities and towns absorb the strength which the fields are beginning to feel the need of This is in our own country also, but not to the extent that it is in England While the proportion of agricultural [illegible] to the population there is only 5 per cent here it is [illegible] per cent.

A PHASE OF THE SALARY GRAB.

EX SENATOR DOOLITTLE ON THE PRESIDENT'S SALARY—HIS TEAM AS LEARNED AS EVER—CONGRESSMAN WILLARD, ETC.—AN INTERESTING REVIEW OF FORMER OCCUPANTS OF THE WHITE HOUSE.

From an Address delivered at Kenosha (Wis) by Judge J. R. Doolittle, Oct. 29, 1874.]

When the Republic of Carthage had lost her virtue and Hannibal sought to hinder public officials from plundering her treasury what did we see? Instead of rousing her citizens against the plunderers they complained of Hannibal to the Romans. They implored the destroyers of the country to save them their riches to save the means of gratifying their pleasures at the price of losing their liberties.

Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey
Where wealth accumulates and men decay.

Oh my fellow citizens of Wisconsin! I am hopeful by nature. As a matter of duty also I strive to look upon the bright side of all things. But I should be false to you and to myself if I did not declare, in the most earnest manner that the growth of extravagance luxury and corruption in public and private life within the last fifteen years, fills me with

for the future of the Republic.

When first I went to Washington in 1857 there was no such thing as an aristocracy of wealth. Men were respected not for their money but for what they were for themselves for their talents and character however modest and simple their manners or their apartments. To-day men in Congress and in the Executive Department, put on the airs and ape the manners of Princes and aristocrats. They are waited upon by footmen in livery, and by their example and conduct unconsciously perhaps are doing all in their power to corrupt American youth and inspire in them a spirit of contempt for Republican ideas Republican simplicity manners and life.

At that time such a thing as official corruption was hardly known. One member of the House was involved, and promptly expelled. One also in the Senate. He resigned to avoid a similar fate. To-day it threatens to

of the people in Congress and in the Executive Departments. The investigations of last winter amongst other things brought out the fact that the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations received $5 000 to go before the Board of Public Works of Washington to ask a contract for street-pavement. He knew, and the Board knew, what everybody knows that the Board depended mainly upon him to carry the desired appropriations to fulfill that contract through the House of Representatives.

I speak of this fact, which also came to my knowledge professionally not that it is worse or greater than many other cases, but to show how great a change has come over us.

So great has been the increase of luxury and extravagance at Washington that the late increase of salary of members of Congress and of the President has been urged as necessary. As the increase of the salary of the members has been repealed, I will confine myself to the question of which was increased from $25 000 to $50,000 per annum upon the plea that it is necessary to support the dignity of the position and the hospitalities of the Executive Mansion.

Such an increase was, in my judgment as unnecessary, as it was unwise and evil in example. Let me state some facts to show this.

The President's house gardens conservatories and stables, are all furnished and kept in perfect order in all their details at the public expense stewards and doorkeepers and a band of music for all public receptions are furnished without one dollar's expense to the President. All the furniture, carpets, beds, tables, to the minutest thing which convenience or luxury can desire are furnished by the Government. The whole establishment is also warmed and lighted throughout all this at an expense to the Public Treasury, of $60 000 to $70 000.

But you may ask me, What then

out of his salary?

He pays his cooks, the waiters upon his table, and the [illegible] of his carriage and the servants who wait upon his family and guests; he pays for what is eaten and drank at his table. By custom, it is expected of the President to give several State dinners and in the course of the year to entertain each member of Congress, the Judge of the Courts, the Foreign Ministers, his Cabinet, and occasionally distinguished strangers,—in all, probably 500 persons. If such dinners should cost $10 for each person, $5,000 would cover that expense. Of the $20,000 remaining $10 000 ought to pay his other family expenses. That would leave him $10 000 per annum clear.

Now what does experience show? Let me state some instances. Mr Polk of Tennessee (and, while Mrs Polk that accomplished lady was in the White House it was never more popular), saved about $40,000 out of four years salaries—about $10 000 a year.

Mr Pierce did the same. Mr Buchanan did nearly the same. Mr Lincoln when elected President, was worth about $30 000 and his estate upon his death, was about $75 000. It must be borne in mind too that Mr Lincoln received his salary in greenbacks when they were not worth over 60 cents in gold and when prices were highest.

Mr Johnson saved from his salary in three years and a half $20,000 or $30 000 and that too, when greenbacks were still at a discount of 25 per cent. And, it must not be forgotten,

NONE OF THESE PRESIDENTS EVER ACCEPTED PRESENTS.

Mr Johnson refused the present of a carriage. Whatever may be said in criticism of Mr Johnson's public course all parties agree that the White House was never more gracefully kept and presided over than by his daughter, Mrs Patterson—a perfect lady and a model of a Republican mistress of the White House. Let me tell you a fact which has never been published, but which I had from the lady's own lips. Just as she was about to leave at the end of Mr Johnson's Administration, the Steward of the House took an inventory and found that not one article of furniture was missing or broken not a sheet towel, or napkin was lost and the house was in perfect order from top to bottom. She told me another fact, which I know the wives and daughters of the farmers of Wisconsin will be glad to hear. When she went into the White House she purchased two excellent cows. From the milk of these cows she made all the butter, used all the cream and made all the ice-cream used in the President's family during his term. When she went home she shipped these cows to Tennessee. Is it any wonder ladies that Mrs Patterson received the first premium on butter at their late fair, last fall.

By referring to these facts to show that

to support the President of our Republic, so long as we maintain Republican ideas and Republican simplicity of life and manners do not understand me as wanting in respect personally, to President Grant, or to his accomplished and most excellent lady. If Congress appropriates to the President a salary of $50 000 I do not condemn him for accepting it. But it would have been far better not to have made such an increase. I need not be told that the President and Mrs Grant could not have lived in good Republican style like those who preceded them for $25 000 a year. They had been accustomed in early life to a small income and Mrs Grant like Mrs Patterson could have maintained with elegance dignity and grace the Republican simplicity and manners of the White House. I refer to this increase only as a fact to show to what extent the love of display and pageant of luxury and extravagance had taken hold of Congress to pass such a law.

The evil consequences of luxury and extravagance have reached not only men in political life but men in social life and even in high places in the Church leading into temptations falsehood and ignominy beyond expression.

An American appeared in the parquet of a London theatre with his coat and trowsers very much torn and disarranged. Some people thought he had been sitting on the ragged edge of despair but in reality he had fought with the doorkeeper about leaving his overcoat in the lobby as is customary.

How Butler Takes It.—In the East the defeat of Butler and Ayer is hailed with satisfaction even by the Republican press. Butler takes it coolly, and says that "If the Republican party can stand its losses I think I can bear my share."

Latest Liverpool [illegible] market [illegible] wheat ranged from [illegible] for average and 10s 4d @10 10d for club per cental. The London market is quoted at [illegible] per quarter for average quality just shipped [illegible] per quarter for average [illegible] due at Queenstown.

The money market owing to the heavy draught made upon the banks by those engaged in moving the wheat crop still rules very tight the supply at hand being altogether inadequate for present purposes. There were to-day some inquiries upon the part of agriculturists for loans upon wheat stored at various points along the river but we believe all of them were denied upon the ground of the scarcity of means. First class commercial paper is readily discounted at the usual rate while for outside paper there is no call except through brokers. There were sundry exciting rumors upon the street again this morning in regard to the reported failures in San Francisco but as no dispatches were received confirming the news the excitement quieted down as the day waned and the impression gained ground that after all it was only a canard.

In the general merchandise market to-day trade was a shade brisker than on yesterday but by no means as active as we might reasonably expect at this season of the year. Some buyers from the eastern portion of the State were upon the market to-day selecting such goods as they were in need of and various orders were received from the same direction and also from Sound ports. Trade from the interior portions of the valley is sluggish and merchants seem inclined to procrastinate buying as long as possible in order that they may begin the year upon as good a footing as possible. The volume of trade during the first ten months of the year compares very favorably with that for the same period during the two previous years and we doubt not but that at the close the result will show a satisfactory increase. The low price of wheat the present season has of course operated to the disadvantage of trade but upon the whole there is no just cause of complaint since there have been but few losses made as compared with former years and that, too at a time when our trade is constantly expanding.

The stock of Sandwich Island sugars in market have been running very low of late and for a week or two past the market has been entirely bare of the higher grades. The difficulty is, however obviated by the opportune arrival of the bark Mattie Macleay and barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg the former consigned to Corbitt & Macleay and the latter to Allen & Lewis.

The Wheat Market

The receipts of wheat continue heavy and notwithstanding the number of vessels that are being dispatched to the United Kingdom each week the stocks are increasing. The near approach of the large fleet of vessels chartered prior to arrival to carry wheat to the English market admonishes exporters to be prepared and consequently they are in the market for all that offers at prices ranging from $1 [illegible] to $1 [illegible] per cental. Holders throughout the country, with the usual exceptions have become convinced that there is no real prospect for any marked advance in the values of wheat in this market and as a consequence have either concluded to sell or ship. Should the Liverpool market advance ninety days hence it could not affect this market very materially as the seeking vessels will all have been disposed of by that time and holders of charters will aim to make good the losses of the season by not advancing the market rates beyond that figure which would debar profitable exportation by way of San Francisco. The present quotations of wheat in San Francisco are buoyed up and maintained by the disengaged vessels upon the market which would gladly close for a direct port at once. When these vessels are disposed of values must decline as parties having high priced vessels on their hands will have no competitors in the field, and can consequently name their own prices. To-day shipping grades of wheat in San Francisco were quoted at $1 [illegible] per cental, with freights to Europe at 50s.

There are some three or four vessels on the market at this time seeking wheat charters and we understand that negotiations looking to the closing of the whole of them are now under consideration.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangement are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure health returns.
